Press Release

On May 13, 2026, Randy Wyerick was sentenced to three-hundred and twenty-four months, which amounts to twenty-seven years, in prison for nine third-degree-felony child sex-abuse offenses. These offenses were committed against marriage-based relatives of Wyerick's when they were between eight and fifteen years old. Deputies and detectives with the Mercer County Sheriff's Office investigated reports of the abuse after receiving a tip from a family member of the victims. That investigation led to Wyerick being indicted for fourteen sex-abuse offenses, thirteen of which were third-degree felonies and the other a fourth-degree felony. Wyerick later pleaded guilty to nine of the third-degree felonies in exchange for the dismissal of the remaining five offenses.
